Tomorrow, Saturday, Nov. 24, the voters of Grenada county will go to the polls and express their wishes as to whether or not the county demonstration agents and the home economics agent are to be retained by the board of supervisors after their present term of employment expires on Dec. 1. The results of the election will not be binding upon the supervisors since it is not what is called a legal election, that is, it is not mandatory on the board to act according to the will of the people. No petition was presented to the board asking for the election, otherwise the decision of the voters would settle the matter. #### END IS IN SIGHT.

The end of the extraordinary session of the Mississippi legislature is in sight. Both houses are making attempts to wind up the matters on their calendars so that the lawmakers may partake of their Thanksgiving dinner at home.

The joint revenue committee from the house and senate has submitted a report calling for a levy of a tax on cigars, cigarettes, theatres and motion pictures, a revision upward of the income tax rate, an increase in privilege taxes and a special tax on real estate transfers, all of which are estimated to yield nearly two and one-half millions.

With these taxes, the two-mill increase in the advalorem levy to take care of the pensions to Confederate soldiers and other taxes already levied, Mississippians must dig deep to take care of the increasing costs of government. The special session of the legislature, which has accomplished nothing that could not have been disposed of at the regular session, has cost more than $100,000 for its eight weeks of palavering and this, too, must come from the pockets of the already overburdened taxpayers.

With all of their many, many weeks of legislating, senators and representatives have not yet been able to agree on a hard-surfaced highway program for Mississippi. And, at this writing, it looks as if they are going to adjourn without reaching a compromise. This means that we shall have at least two more years before a definite start can be made toward giving the state the kind of highway system it needs—that is, unless the governor calls the legislators back to Jackson for another session, as he threatens to do. An intelligent highway measure that will give us enduring hard-surfaced roads will do more than almost anything toward the upbuilding of Mississippi. We need good roads. We want good roads. We should have good roads.

ISOLATION IN BUSINESS PASSES

Newspaper advertising can rightfully be pointed out as the backbone of business in American towns today. There are various forms of advertising—direct mail, bill boards, magazines, newspapers and various other forms—but the one in which the biggest pull and influence results, is no doubt attributed to newspapers.

The home town newspaper, whether it is published in Rushville, or in some state hundreds of miles away, goes into homes because it is wanted there—because someone has paid for having that paper sent into the home.

When that newspaper goes into the home, the merchants send their messages in the same wrapper. Those messages form a most vital part of that newspaper. Advertisers of national repute are becoming more and more convinced that the local newspaper reaches the people they want in preference to many of the highly colored, expensive magazine pages that feature our news

A traveling salesman the other day, representing a line of goods used by a large per cent of the people, stated that his firm spent an enormous amount of money in advertising that business in a magazine of national circulation. Of this vast circulation within his territory of one state and several sections adjoining, the firm received eight inquiries from the advertisement.

The salesman followed up these eight inquiries and failed to make a single sale. He admitted that if that money had been spent in the home town newspaper within his territory, he would have had more business than he would have been able to take care of.

Advertising not only informs the people of the community that the advertising merchant has the goods, but creates a demand for the goods where there has been none before. Take your own case for instance. How often have you been induced to stop in a store and buy a certain article that you wanted but would not have remembered to buy had you not noticed the ad in the newspaper? The age of isolation in business is past and the fellow who wants to progress must keep on his toes and stay abreast of the times.

SMALL TOWN INDUSTRY

It appears that the smaller cities and towns of the country are rapidly coming into their own in an industrial way. Many industrial plants are seeking locations, not in the congested centers of population, but in smaller communities advantageously located with respect to raw materials, transportation, electric power and a dependable labor supply.

One of the most striking examples of this movement is seen in the installment of 100,000 new cotton spindles by a single manufacturing corporation in Alabama this year. Instead of placing all these spindles in one locality, they are being distributed among ten small towns, 10,000 spindles going to each.

This is only one of many similar movements of industrial establishments toward the smaller communities, but it is the largest single movement of its kind so far announced. It should give encouragement to any town, regardless of its size, where favorable conditions exist for carrying on a manufacturing enterprise.

An industrial payroll is a valuable asset in supplementing the resources of agricultural sections by giving employment to surplus labor, creating a better market for products of the farm and otherwise stimulating growth and progress. Every community should make the most of its opportunities for securing such payrolls.

The woman who climbed those 1,358 steps in the Woolworth building the other day in 13 minutes, probably had an idea that there was a special sale of some kind on the top floor.

A town the other day advertised that they were going to build five miles of sidewalk. That is a waste of money. No one uses a sidewalk any more.

RELIEVING THEMSELVES

Practically everybody would be glad to see some practical means of farm relief brought about by legislation, but the wise farmer is not depending too much on politicians for a betterment of his condition.

Some instances in which farmers have successfully sought relief through better methods are related in a recent magazine article which gives food for thought. Here are a few:

John D. Brader of Oswego, Kan., rented out three-fourths of his land seven years ago and devoted the rest to dairy cattle and poultry. From 17 cows and 350 hens he cleared $2,600 last year. Fifteen years ago he was a renter; now he owns his farm and is president of a bank.

A. E. Nelson of Gonvick, Minn., found a few dairy cows profitable, so he increased his herd, likewise increasing his monthly milk check to an average of $308.

Henry Hogeman of Emmet County, Iowa, got out of the beaten path by raising 30 acres of beets which brought him $3,600 last season. William Molison, another Iowa farmer, raised a big flock of poultry in connection with his other farming operations and made money.

In many sections of the South the "cow, sow and hen" are bringing prosperity to farmers who formerly grew poorer and poorer through depending on cotton alone. In every state many progressive farmers are bettering their condition by similar means.

There is no denying that agriculture is in a bad way generally, but a better planned farm program would enable many farmers to overcome this condition to a great extent.

A WONDERFUL COUNTRY

Electric light is displacing kerosene in the country and gas in the cities, yet the consumption of neither oil nor gas has decreased. On the contrary, more gas and oil are used than at any other time. New uses for them have been found, and uses for electricity besides for light are continually being developed. The use of electricity for power and heat has only just begun.

There is no limit in sight to the expansion of the electric business, for population is continually increasing and wealth is accumulating. But the creation of this business out of nothing is but one manifestation of that stupendous miracle which is another name for America.

During the time in which the electric industry has been developed, the automobile business has become one of the largest in the country, the radio has hundreds of millions invested in production of receiving instruments, the people have money to buy and maintain these things and the money they have paid to the producers has gone in wages to hundreds of thousands of workmen and to dividends of millions, if not billions, of accumulated capital.

That is what electricity is doing for this nation.

USING THE SCHOOL HOUSE

In many country communities it is becoming more and more the custom to make use of school buildings for a variety of helpful purposes, in addition to that for which they are primarily intended.

Where no other building is available, the school house affords a convenient place for pleasant and profitable gatherings, such as men's and women's clubs, boys' and girls' clubs, debating societies, singings, entertainments and the like.

While practically every school house is utilized for some of these purposes, in many communities a complete winter program is planned, so as to make it a regular social center, around which all neighborhood activities revolve.

This tends to foster a spirit of co-operation and neighborliness, which is extremely beneficial. With the advent of radio, these gatherings may have music and other features of broadcast programs to enliven the evening, at little expense.

By systematically using these means so readily at hand, the country school house may greatly contribute to the attractiveness of rural life.

USE HOME PRODUCTS

Lessons of the war have taught us that the more nearly self-sustaining a nation becomes the more advantageously it will be situated should war unhappily come.

The same principle applies in peace times as well, and the more we are able to substitute home products for those usually imported the better off we shall be from an economic standpoint.

With this principle in mind, the Southwide Cotton Council is urging new and wider uses of cotton, as well as better methods of marketing that staple. It is estimated that the use of cotton bagging alone, instead of imported jute, might easily absorb from one-half million to a million bales of cotton annually.

The idea of giving preference to home products is applicable to states and local communities as well as to nations. Home producers of both raw and manufactured products should be given every possible encouragement and patronage. Aside from keeping money at home, such a policy would often make possible large savings in transportation charges, give more employment to local labor and enhance local prosperity generally.

VOTE ON EXTENSION WORK TOMORROW

The voters of Grenada county will be called upon tomorrow, Saturday, to give expression to their views on the question of continuing the extension work in the county after this year when the terms of the three agents now employed by the county expire. It is the duty of every qualified elector to go to the polls and vote. If you feel that the county can get along just as well without the agents, go to the polls tomorrow and vote against them. If you think the welfare of the county demands that they be retained, go to the polls and vote for them. No matter which side of the question you favor, cast your vote. If you don't vote, you have no right in future to "cuss" the agents and their work if they are retained nor will you have any right to object if they are voted out.

Skirt makers are reported to be seeking shorter hours. If styles continue to get shorter, they will soon quit working entirely.

When we write the truth it isn't so necessary to keep a carbon copy.

And still we have no highway measure satisfying to both branches of the state legislature. Mississippi wants good roads and should have them.

HOOVER'S TIMELY VISIT

The sailing of President-elect Herbert Hoover to visit the Republics of South America prior to his inauguration is a distinct recognition of the importance of these countries to the trading prosperity of the United States. Moreover, it will afford Mr. Hoover an opportunity to create excellent good will for his country in a part of the world he has not yet visited.

That Mr. Hoover will bend every endeavor as President to build up the export trade of the United States seems determined. The two necessary factors in the possible success of such an undertaking in South America are, first, the good will of the people there; and, second, intelligent information as to existing conditions. The trip will be of immense benefit along both lines.

According to statistics there is one telephone for every eight people, and sometimes it seems as if all eight are using it at the same time.

A hypocrite is one who pretends to believe a person whom he knows is lying.

Eskimo songs reaching this country by radio are said to be almost as bad as our own.

Looks as though some husbands also may have been picked out in a blindfold test.

Chinese girls should have no difficulty in learning stenography, there being no spelling in that language.

Doctors declare that fasting for 15 days will restore one's basic metabolic rate. If you care for that sort of thing.

THE PRAYERS OF PAUL

LESSON TEXT—Acts 20:36-38; Rom. 1:8-10; Eph. 1:15-23; 3:14-21, GOLDEN TEXT—Rejoice always; pray without ceasing; in everything give thanks.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Prays for His Friends.

JUNIOR TOPIC-Paul Prays for His Friends.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC-Paul as a Man of Prayer, YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Place of Prayer in Paul's Life.

His prayer life most really reveals the character of a man. Paul's prayers explained the power and efficiency of his wonderful ministry. The careful study of these prayers will give us strength, guidance and peace as we go about life's duties. The prayer meeting, believers getting together to pray, has characterized the Christian church throughout history.

I. Paul's Prayer With the Ephe-

sian Elders (Acts 20:36-38). Having met with these elders and pointed out to them the perils which confronted them and set forth their responsibility, he knelt down and prayed with them before going to Jerusalem, where bonds and afflictions awaited him. They all wept sore and fell on Paul's neck and kissed him, knowing that this was to be the last sight of him. When believers pray and weep together, they will definitely work together. II. Paul's Praying for the Romans

(Romans 1:8-10). 1. He thanked God for their world-famed faith (v. 8). The true minister has no greater occasion for gratitude than the knowledge of genuine faith possessed by followers of Christ. 2. He prayed for them continually (v. 9). Knowing the far-reaching influence of the church at Rome, he unceasingly prayed for them that their influence might be most widely felt. 3. His supreme burden in prayer was for a successful journey to Rome (v. 10).

He desired to visit Rome in order that he might impart some spiritual gift to the believers there and also to receive some spiritual help from them. The true minister receives a reflex blessing from those to whom he ministers. III. Paul Praying for the Ephe-

1. For knowledge concerning

Christ (Eph. 1:15-23). He besought God that the believers at Ephesus might know (1) The faithfulness on the part of believers is frequently due to their lack of true understanding of their call ing. The right understanding of the Christian's hope will make steadfast the lives of believers. (2) The riches of the glory of God's inheritance in the saints (v. 18). It is marvelous to know that the saint has an inheritance in God, but it is more marvelous that God has an inheritance in the saints. (3) The greatness of Christ's power to usward (vv. 19-23). This mighty power was demonstrated in the res urrection of Christ from the dead The same power which gave the victory over the grave is available for believers.

2. For strength (Eph. 3:14-21). This power was made to God who is the Father of His great family in heaven and in earth. He prayed that the believers might be strengthened with might in their inner man, with the object of being indwelt by Christ. If Christ is to be entertained, the temple needs the divine strengthening. Where the house is strong enough, Christ will come and abide. Likewise, that they might be rooted and grounded in love (v. 17). This establish ment in the love of Christ is need ed by all so as to prevent them from being turned aside by every wind of doctrine. Also, that they might comprehend the love of Christ (v. 18). This love is wonin its dimensions—in its depth, breadth, width and height it transcends human understanding -the object being that the believer might be filled unto the fullness of God (v. 19). This does not mean that the believer can hold God, but that the believer can be so related to God that the infinite resources are at his command.

Telephone service, a public trust

THE widespread ownership of the Bell Telephone System places an obligation on its management to guard the savings of its hundreds of thousands of stockholders.

Its responsibility for so large a part of the country's telephone service imposes an obligation that the service shall always be adequate, dependable and satisfactory to

The only sound policy that will meet these obligations is to continue to furnish the best possible service at the lowest cost consistent with financial safety.

There is then in the Bell System no incentive to earn speculative or large profits. Barnings must be sufficient to assure the best possible service and the financial integrity of the business. Anything in excess of these requirements goes toward extending the service or keeping down the rates.

This is fundamental in the policy of the company.

The Bell System's ideal is the same as that of the public it serves --- the most telephone service and the best, at the least cost to the user. It accepts its responsibility for a nation-wide telephone service as a public trust.

I. Paul Before Felix (24). 1. The accusation against him (vv. 1-9).

This was made by Tertullus, perhaps a Roman lawyer employed by the Jews.

(1) A pestilent fellow (v. 5). This would indicate a fellow utterly base and corrupt—a plague.

(2) An inciter of rebellion, a lover of sedition (v. 5). This they hoped would bring him into conflict with the Roman power. (3) That he was ringleader of a sect (v. 5). This was designed to throw contempt and suspicion upon the Christians. (4) That he had profaned the temple (v. 6). 2. Paul's defense (vv. 10-21). (1) His frankness and courtesy Henderson who, no doubt, are (v. 10). He gave recognition to the fact that Fellx had been ruler long enough to be able to judge justly, as the habits and ways of the Jews were familiar to him.

(2) The charges made (vv. 11a. The charge of sedition denied (vv. 11, 12). The falsity of this he showed by the fact that the time was too short. Besides, his conduct showed the contrary. b. The charge of heresy (vv. 14-16). This he made by a confession and a denial. He admitted that he was of this "way," which they called heresy, but denied that Christians were schismatic. He showed that his actions were clearly in keeping with the Hebrew religion, that he worshiped the same God (v. 14), fully believed in the same Scriptures (v. 14), and had the same hope of the resurrection of the dead.

c. The charge of sacrilege (vv. 17-21). This he refuted by saying that he had come all the way from Greece to worship at the feast (v. 17), and that he had brought alms for his nation.

3. Felix trembles before Paul (vv.

Wicked as Felix was, Paul's manner won his favor, though he did not release him. His sentence was 'indulgent imprisonment," which kept him free from his enemies while under Roman protection. When brought before Felix, Paul reasoned righteousness, self-control and judgment to come. This he did with such power that Felix was

II. Paul Before Festus (25:1-12). More than two years had elapsed since the trial before Felix, but Jewish hatred did not abate. As soon as Festus, the new governor, went to Jerusalem, he was besieged with accusations against Paul. His accusers desired that he be brought to Jerusalem for trial, intending to lie in wait and kill him on the way. Festus refused their request but agreed to give them an opportunity to go down to Caesarea to accuse him. They were unable to prove anything against him. Festus, willing to please the Jews, proposed to send him to Jerusalem for trial, Seeing that it was impossible to get justice before Festus, Paul made ise of his right as a Roman citizen and appealed to Caesar.

III. Paul Before Agrippa (Acts 25:13-26:27).

1. The occasion (25:18-27). This was the visit of Agrippa and Bernice to Festus. Upon their arrival they expressed a desire to hear

2. Paul's defense before Agrippa (26:1-27).

He introduced his defense (vv. 1-3) by expressing his delight in now telling his case to one who could follow his line of argument, for Agrippa was an expert in questions concerning the Jews.

He then indicated his manner of life (vv. 4-12) by showing that he had lived in the strictest accord with the most rigid sect of the Jews. He then indicated his supernatural conversion (vv. 13-15). After his conversion he was commissioned by Christ (vv. 16-18). As soon as he had received his commission he rendered obedience (vv. 19-23). Seeing how thoroughly in earnest Paul was Festus interrupted him and attempted to account for his enthusiasm by attributing it to the ravings of an unbalanced mind. Despite this, he made his appeal to Agrippa (vv. 25-27). He courageously appealed to Agrippa's knowledge of the work of Jesus and of the prophets. So definitely was Agrippa impressed by Paul's appeal that he declared he was almost persuaded to be a Christian.
